

HAND SANITATION SOLUTIONS

Next-level antibacterial hand sanitation.

Break the chain of cross contamination. Tsebo Hygiene Solutions' range of hand sanitisers are a more effective and convenient way to sanitise one's hands than traditional soap and water. Just one dose can offer hours of protection against harmful and infectious agents. Our sanitisers are fast drying and kill a significant amount of harmful microorganisms.

THE CHALLENGE

We are surrounded by potentially harmful microorganisms (also known as germs) in our work and home environments.

These microscopic single-cell organisms thrive in diverse environments and are easily spread through:

- Coughing and sneezing
- Contact with infected people (handshakes, hugs, etc.)
- Contact with contaminated surfaces, food, and water (door handles, communal kitchen areas, coffee stations, printers, phones, etc.)

The World Health Organisation (WHO) recommends that we frequently sanitise hands by using alcohol-based hand sanitisers, thereby assisting in reducing the risk of transmitting and contracting any harmful bacteria.

the obvious

OUR SOLUTIONS

Cross contamination is the number one cause of absenteeism from work. By reducing the potential for contamination one can ensure a more productive work environment by reducing working days lost through illness.

Tsebo sanitisers can be used on any surface, including hands. They come in a range of sizes that make them ideal for critical staff entrance or exit areas, lift lobbies, reception areas, canteens, food production areas, etc.

The Betasan antibacterial 'no-touch' sanitiser dispensers are an excellent addition to any workplace environment. They can be free-standing or wall-mounted and offer more than 1000 applications of alcohol gel or liquid from sealed cartridges.
